

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

Filter Options

Elements Samples

We worked w/JobScience to use SF's sharing model/Communities to control user access/permissions. Some core features were a sourcing center & active profile filtering, which populated candidates who were actively seeking work. We built/designed the sourcing center w/JobScience which served as the flagship feature of navigation; filtering that helped recruiters source candidates for a variety of jobs based on skill sets, age, availability, experience, etc.
